Garden City Business and Long Island Bank Join Forces to Provide Continuing Education Classes to Attorneys

The Champion Office Suites of Garden City and the Professional Services Group of the State Bank of Long Island are joining forces to provide free continuing education classes to attorneys. Champion Office Suites is the preeminent virtual office and remote reception service provider, and State Bank's Professional Services Group is the Island's leading provider of tailored banking services for lawyers and other professionals.

"The series will kick-off on November 9 at 8am with a presentation in our Garden City facility," said Roger Kahn, owner of the Champion Office Suites in Garden City. "A large percentage of our clients are attorneys, and this is a real value-added service that we can offer," says Kahn. "The first session will be on Estate Planning and Ethics."

Tom Kokinias, First Vice President of State Bank says, "We will follow that with a session on December 6 on Litigation and Ethics. It too will start at 8am. The CLE classes, for which attendees will receive full CLE credit, are designed to be over by 9:30am, so everyone can get to their offices for a full-day of work."

"The program will continue into 2008 with dates that have yet to be finalized," explained Angelo Galati, Assistant Vice President of State Bank.

The Champion Office Suites is located at 1225 Franklin Avenue, Suite 325, in Garden City. The first two sessions will be for Champion Office Suites clients only. The sessions in 2008 will be opened to the public-at-large.
